GAY PARTY IN CITY OF BROTHERLY LOVE

DIRECTOR BUTLER DEMANDS GOVERNOR CLOSE BIG HOTEL

Wild Affair Was Attended by Residents Prominent in Philadelphia Society—Scores of Champagne Bottles Found and Strains of Jazz Music Filled the Air.

As the result of what was reported officially to be a wild party, in which champagne flowed freely, women seen running in and out of rooms and at least one middle aged and married city detective was hugged and kissed by a young woman and invited to share a bottle of champagne with her. Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler, director of public safety, of Philadelphia, will ask Governor Gifford Pinchot what steps shall be taken toward the closing of the Stenton, one of the city's most fashionable hotels, it became known Saturday.

The former marine corps general would have acted promptly himself, he said, but he entertains the belief that Pennsylvania laws require such action to be taken by state officials and not those of the city.

The party took place Friday night. Detectives who visited the place, according to the official report, found scores of champagne bottles, empty and filled, while 21 couples danced uproariously to the strains of jazz music.

Butler said that the affiair was "disgraceful," and expressed surprise that it should take place in one of the largest hotels in the city. He also said that five warrants had been issued against the principal offenders.

"I want to find out," he exclaimed, "just who has the power to stop hotels' licenses in this state, because in addition to punishment that can be meted out by city authorities, something will be done to put an end to such practices. I don't care who the person is with the power, but I am determined to do all I can to have the place closd."

The report filed by detectives said the affair apparently was a birthday party for the girl, and was attended by residents prominent in this city, altho they obtained only a few names.

"The men at the party were apparently very prominent persons," said the detective's report, "but refused to give their names, except one, Marshall Reid. There was also a Mr. Lewis. I questioned Mr. Heeb, hotel manager and he gave me the information that this was a birthday party in honor of a Miss Sherman. I showed him the rooms where 37 champagne bottles were found. He shook his head and said: "This sure was some party.' "

It was explained that no arrests were made at the party because the officers had no warrants.

MISS YOUNG'S INJURIES ARE VERY SERIOUS.

Miss Lillian Young, who was run down by an automobile Friday evening was injured more seriously than at first reported. The X-Ray shadowgraph showed that her right hip joint is out of its socket ,the pelvis bone broken in three places and three of her ribs broken near the spinal column. The patient will be placed in a cast in which she will have to remain from six to eight weeks.

SIR CHARLES E. MADDEN

Admiral Sir Charles E. Madden, flag officer of the British Royal navy, who was commander of the Atlantic fleet from 1919 to 1922, has been appointed admiral of the fleet, chief position in the British navy. He served in the battle of Jutland in 1916, and was mentioned in dispatches; was chief of staff to the admiral commanding in chief, 1914-1916, and second in command of the Grand fleet in 1917.

GRANGERS WILL HOLD MEETING ON SATURDAY.

The Pickaway Pomona Grange will hold its next regular meeting with Washington Grange Saturday, February 21. The meeting will open promptly at 10 o'clock with installation of officers which will be given in full form. In the afternoon the meeting will be addressed by Joseph W. Fichter, of Hamilton, Ohio. Toledo, Feb. 16—The Belgian police dog, "Billy," is recovering from gunshot wounds received at the hands of bandits whom he put to flight as they were attempting to steal the automobile of his master, W. H. Diemer.

AUTO UPSET.

Dr. and Mrs. Gay Hitler and children accompanied by Miss Helen Wittich and Professor Ivan Davis were ditched when the auto in which they were riding skidded and went down a bank on the road just below the residence of D. S. Ludwig. The passengers were taken to their homes in the car of Postmaster G. P. Foresman, who happened along just as the spill occurred. No one was injured and the car was not damaged but was in such a position that it could not be gotten out and had to be left until a wrecker could right it and bring it in.

BUILDING CONTRACT APPROVED

Van Gundy & Beck to Make Improvements at Industrial School.

Van Gundy & Beck, Lancaster contractors, have been awarded the $165,000 building improvement and construction job at the Boys' Industrial school. Approval of the contract was received from Attorney General Crabbe.

Mr. Van Gundy stated that work would be begun at once on the improvement which includes the erection of a new brick school house and the construction of additions to four cottages. These will all be made fireproof. It is understood that some school labor will be used in the work, which Mr. Van Gundy stated he expected to have completed this year.

Contract for the construction of a bakery at B. I. S. was awarded to a Cambridge firm.

Van Gundy and Beck have been engaged in the construction of two buildings at Ohio university, Athens. They are to house a training school and a manual training school and cost approximately $400,000.—Lancaster Eagle

The senior member of the firm David Van Gundy, was a former resident of this city and has made good in his adopted home.

DRESS WELL AND SUCCEED IS SLOGAN.

Columbus, O. Feb. 16 (United Press) Spring trends in men's clothing will be taught to Ohio retailers at the convention here February 23, 24 and 25 of the Ohio Retail Clothiers and Furnishers' association.

The Ohio association in cooperation with the national organization, is promoting a "Dress Well and Succeed" campaign for the purpose of stimulating a style consciousness in men, according to C. E. Dittmer, executive director of the association.

The style element is becoming more and more pronounced in men's wear said Dittmer.

The winner will be awarded a trophy now held by the Ohio State university.

The contest will be in connection with the meetings of the Ohio Music Teachers' association and of the Federated Women's Music clubs of Ohio, convening here the week of April 22.

MASS MEETING TO CONSIDER POISON CASE.

(United Press)

Columbus, O. Feb. 14—At a general mass meeting called today by Dean A. Dye, Police Prosecutor John Chester and President W. O. Thompson of Ohio State university urged pharmacy students to "come forward and tell all they knew about the poison capsule mystery."

President Thompson told the students he would "carry it to my grave that the poison case is one of the greatest disasters of my lifetime."

"It is the first time in the history of the institution that anyone has had the opportunity to say that he is embarrassed to be a graduate of Ohio State university," said Thompson, and his voice trembled.

THE HEART OF AMERICA QUITE RIGHT

Clever Playlet of Mrs. Allen Presented at Methodist Church.

A most pleasing entertainment was enjoyed by a large audience Sunday evening at the First Methodist Episcopal church when the playlet, "The Heart of American Youth," was rendered in a very impressive manner.

The playlet was written by Mrs. E. A. Allen, of South Scioto street, and was given in celebration of the birthday anniversaries of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln and in a most convincing manner taught the great lessons of religion, patriotism and morality.

Mrs. Allen is a writer of unusual ability and contributes many interesting stories to various magazines of the country, and this playlet is but another evidence of her accomplishments. It was most cleverly constructed and in a very emphatic and entertaining manner brought out so forcibly the outstanding facts in the lives of the Father of His Country and of the Great Emancipator.

Those who took part in the presentation were: George Washington, Walter Tedrick; Martha Washington, Mrs. Walter Dearth; Abraham Lincoln, Professor E. L. Daley; Nancy Hanks, Mrs. Allen; the Athletic girl, Dorothy Denman, Choir boy, Charles Plum, who bore the Christian flag.

The selection of the different characters in the cast was most happy, as each one was especially suited to the part he was supposed to represent and fitted so naturally into the theme of the story.

Without disparagement of any of the other players, it may be said that to Mr. Daley, nature has been extremely kind and that in his splendid makeup, he looked more like the first martyr president than "Honest Abe" himself ever did or could ever hoped to look.

Plan Now Repairs to Hotbeds, Cold Frames

Scarcity of labor and high prices for materials are making it increasingly necessary for vegetable growers to adopt efficient methods.

In the opinion of C. H. Nissley, vegetable specialist at the New Jersey State College of Agriculture, New Brunswick, it is now time to be planning for the repair of hotbed and coldframe sashes. If this work can be done during the spare time through the winter months, it will save much worry in the spring when rush work begins.

Painting is one of the jobs that might well be started. A linseed oil, white-lead paint will do much to lengthen the life of sashes. An especially thorough job should be done at the mortised joints. Homemade putty made according to the following formulas will give very good results and can be made at a saving of money.

The following materials are used: For 26¼-pound lots: 5 pints of raw linseed oil, 3⅛ pounds of white lead, 20 pounds of whiting. For 5¼-pound lots: 1 pint of raw linseed oil, ⅝ pound of white lead, 4 pounds of whiting. Cost per pound—seven cents, not counting labor. Thoroughly mix the white lead and oil. Stir into this mixture enough whiting to make a stiff dough. Pour this on a board which has been sprinkled with a good layer of whiting to prevent the mixture from sticking to the board. Then knead, adding enough whiting to give it the desired consistency. This putty will stay soft for an indefinite time if kept covered with water.

For those who want them, there are numerous commercial materials on the market to take the place of putty for sash work.

Dried Buttermilk Used in Egg-Laying Rations

Dried buttermilk is comparatively high in price, but its feeding value is also high and can be used to advantage in egg-laying rations. Here is a mash recommended by Iowa State college, which contains dried buttermilk: One hundred pounds finely ground corn, 100 pounds finely ground oats, 100 pounds wheat bran, 100 pounds flour middlings, 30 pounds dried buttermilk, 20 pounds bone meal, 50 pounds 60 per cent tankage, 5 pounds salt. In connection with this mash the college recommends 200 pounds shelled corn and 100 pounds oats for the scratch grain. In fact, that is the scratch grain the college almost always uses for its layers. There are times when wheat bran and flour middlings may be relatively too high in price to make them economical feeds. When that obtains more ground oats may be fed than is recommended in the ration mentioned. For example, 150 pounds ground corn and 250 pounds finely ground oats, together with the dried buttermilk, tankage, bone meal and salt mentioned, would perhaps give equally good results.

Order Chicks Early

The poultryman who desires chicks for next spring delivery should be looking around for a poultry breeder who sells chicks of good quality. Many a man is forced to go without chicks or to accept later hatched chicks than desired because he has been too slow in placing his order. Place your order early and you will receive what you want.

Trees Need Sunlight

Branches headed back a distance from the lateral, or stubbed back, will send out a lot of sprouts, covered by summer with leaves, and the tree will be so densely covered that sunlight cannot strike into the tree, hence the bearing area will be much reduced. If you have to take out a whole branch, or practically the whole thing, it is generally good practice to cut clear back to the parent branch.

WOMAN CRITICIZES HER SEX

Australian Writer Seems to Hold the Opinion That Women as a Whole Are Unreasonable.

And the same man is instantly swept by such a hurricane of abuse as to make him sorry once more that he has spoken.

There is no charge which the modern woman resents more than that of unreasonableness. She prides herself on her cool head and capable judgment. She expresses contempt of her sister of other times—an unbalanced creature, with no mind of her own about anything, nor desire to develop one. Yet, despite her professed common sense, one wonders now and then whether the modern woman is actually as reasonable as she imagines.

We stand up for our rights nowadays. We claim complete equality with man; freedom to enter all his empires, and even to govern them if we feel disposed. Yet we aren't content with what we get.

He makes way for us; he gives us our chance to rival him in all that he does; he mostly manages to curb his tongue when it would cry out follies too bitterly. All this we consider our due and give no thanks for it.

AMUSEMENTS

What has turned out to be Jackie Coogan's most entertaining picture will be seen at the Met theater Monday. Its title is "Little Robinson Crusoe," written especially for the little star by Willard Mack, who has let his imagination run rampant in working out a plausible and suitable story for Jackie.

The story has to do with Jackie, who plays Hickey Hogan, orphaned son of a San Francisco police hero. He sets out from San Francisco on a tramp steamer bound for Australia to visit his aunt. When they reach the tropics, however, a typhoon wrecks and sinks the ship, taking down all on board with the exception of Mickey and a black cat, who drift away on an improvised raft and strike the shores of a tropical isle.

Then come cannibals and Satan, in all his demoniac glory, after he beholds the doings of little Robinson on the tropical man eating island, will hide his face in shame. For Jackie starts the ball rolling and keeps everyone busier than a vagrant pup with a pedigreed herd of fleas parking on him.

Imagine, embraced in the setting of one picture—San Francisco's police force, the U. S. marines, shipwrecks, cannibals, monkeys, black cats and you may expect most anything—especially when such a mischievous son of Erin as Mickey Hogan is let loose among cannibals.

HARTMAN THEATER.

Not sine Joseph Jefferson and Mrs. John Drew toured the United States with "The Rivals" in 1896 has that national theater known as "the road" had an opportunity to witness such distinguished performance of Sheridan's immortal comedy as is presented this season with the appearance of the all-star cast now touring the country. This production comes to the Hartman theater, Columbus Thursday night, February 19, for three nights and a matinee Saturday.

Mrs. Malaprop, rigid with decorum, is played by Mrs. Fiske. The truculent Sir Lucius O'Trigger is personated by Chauncey Olcott. Bluff and choleric Sir Anthony Absolute, gazing with imperious condescension upon the galaxy of the pump room of bath is to be played by Thomas A. Wise, who returns to the sphere of old comedy in which he started his career. Bob Acres, the pusillanimous, with his absurd finery will be played by James T. Powers, already noted for his performance of David. Lydia Languish, with her sentimental novels, is assigned to Lola Fisher and the role of Lucy, the maid to Marie Carroll, already known in high comedy. Captain Absolute will be enacted by Kenneth Thomson, a young actor, who has become famous as a leading juvenile; Julia is represented by May Collins; Faulkland by Fred Eric; Fag by Percival Vivian; and David and the coachman by George Tawde and Walter Woodall, respectively.

Of all the more-or-less comic plays written by various English dramatists during the period of the so-called old comedies, only three—"The Rivals," now revived in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of its original production, "The School for Scandal," and "She Stoops to Conquer" possessed the vitality to survive as perennial favorites along with Shakespeare's plays. And those three were the work of two exceptional dramatists, Richard Brinsley Sheridan and Oliver Goldsmith. Ever since its first production "The Rivals" has commanded the laughter and the offection of the most celebrated actors of their day. It this country it was a constant favorite in the repeitory of Augustin Daly's stock company, which held the stage during the period of the greatest distinction of the American theater.

Jefferson started giving it regularly 1881 with Mrs. Drew as Mrs. Malaprop and Maurice Barrymore as Captain Absolute. And later, after William J. Florence joined the company, Jefferson continued to produce it until 1892. In 1896 Jefferson took the company on a month's tour of the country playing one-night stands. Jefferson played Bob Acres; Mrs. Drew was seen as Mrs. Malaprop; William H. Crane as Sir Anthony Absolute; Robert Tabor as Captain Absolute; Joseph Holland as Faulkland; Nat Goodwin as Sir Lucius O'Trigger; E. M. Holland as Fag; Francis Wilson as David Julia Marlowe as Lydia Languish and Fanny Rice as Lucy.

MINNESOTA PICKS BRAVE COMMANDER

If Eddie Lindell (he was named Edwin L. by his fond mother but his smile softened it to Eddie) shows the sort of record as commander of the Minnesota department of the American Legion as he flashed during his service in France, Minnesota is going to have an eventful year. And his term bids fair to go down as one of the best in the department, although the "Gopher Gang" has always been one of the "go-fer-'em" outfits in the Legion. He's starting out that way.

Eddie enlisted in the One Hundred and Fifty-first field artillery in May, 1917, and trained at Fort Riley and Camp Mills. He landed in France October 31, 1917. He trained in the artillery signal service. He returned to the United States in May, 1919. But the time in between was thrilling.

At Pexonne on March 12, 1918, he kept his telephone lines in constant repair at great risk of life. Seven men in the battery were killed in the bombardment.

In July he was cited for bravery by Col. George Leach, his commanding officer, and by Lieutenant Colonel Broutin. He had, when the telephone lines were down, called for a barrage with a projector under heavy shell fire, remaining at his post until his message was acknowledged.

most dangerous machine gun fire. The line he built and maintained permitted the adjustment of fire from the front line of the One Hundred and Sixty-fifth infantry.

On the night of September 11, 1918, he left his forward telephone shelter at great personal risk. One at a time he carried four wounded men of the One Hundred and Seventeenth signal corps to safety during a heavy bombardment.

On October 25, 1918, he was awarded the Croix de Guerre with bronze star for his exploit in calling for the barrage by visual signaling in the Souain sector on July 15.

On his return to Minneapolis, Eddie joined the Legion. He organized V. L. Glantvalley post in August, 1919, and was post commander for three years. This post claims to have adopted the first boy scout troop adopted by a Legion outfit. He helped organize the Hennepin County Central Committee in 1920 and was vice commander in 1922.

He worked his way through high school and spent two years at the University of Minnesota. He was employed for a time by the Minneapolis Tribune and is now in the insurance business.

Chippewas Entertained by Carl Anderson Post

Members of Carl Anderson post, Cloquet, Minn., entertained the Chippewas recently. The Indians gathered from the state reservation and were addressed by Gerald V. Barron, past department commander, and Senator Diesen. Superintendent P. R. Wadsworth of the Indian reservation presented certificates to the Indians which were signed by the President of the United States, expressing the appreciation of the nation for "such splendid patriotism and help" during the World war. The Chippewas of Minnesota responded generously to every call of the government in helping increase food supplies, purchasing Liberty bonds and donating to war relief, as well as serving in the armed forces.

President of France Frees Former Soldier

The American Legion post, Paris France, prevailed upon President Doumergue of France to pardon a former American soldier who had been unjustly imprisoned in a French jail for arson. According to Legion officials John L. Ayotte of Sheboygan, Mich. married a French woman, who was not happy in America and persuaded him to return to France, where he had a disagreement with his father-in-law. Being ordered to leave the house Ayotte fled to a neighbor's barn, which was set afire accidentally. Because of his inadequate knowledge of the language he was represented to have confessed to arson and was sentenced to five years' imprisonment.

Few Really Die of Old Age.

According to the Upanishads, which constitute the philosophical part of the Veda—the Bible of the Brahmas—man's life should normally be 100 years. Up to the ninetieth year death is invariably the result of sickness in one form or the other. Between 90 and 100 the cessation of life is that form of death which is called euthanasia, from two Greek words meaning pleasant death. It is only between 90 and 100 years, therefore, that people really die of old age.

CHURCH NOTICE

Methodist Episcopal churches of this county in the Chillicothe district will meet at Williamsport next Wednesday in quarterly conference and will have three sessions; at 10 a. m., 2 p. m,. and 7:30 p. m.

This includes the churches of New Holland, Atlanta, Williamsport, Union Mt. Pleasant, Dublin Hill and Tarlton.

The evening service will be merged in the evangelistic services now being held at Williamsport.

Russian Villages Prey of Fire.

The Russian village is built principally of wood and roofed with wood, or with straw and stones. For this reason there are so many fires that, according to statistics, one-fifth of all the peasant cottages burn down every year, or putting it in another way, every house burns down after five years. This seems improbable, but it is reliable information.

FLAPPERS ARE LEARNING TO BE FLIPPERS

People who are gravely concerned about the flapper's future may be surprised to learn that she is more assiduously devoting herself to learning how to be a pancake flipper than she is giving to the study of flapping.

A recent report of the United States bureau of education says that the increase of student enrollment in home economic courses exceeds that of any other subject in the curriculum.

This ambition on the part of American girls to learn more about the scientific management of their homes is reflected in the great number of home service departments with their lectures, cooking classes and radio talks which have been installed during the past year by the gas companies of the United States.

Nearly 8,000 high schools in this country now give courses in domestic science, with a total enrollment of about 400,000 girls and 3,000 boys. This compares with only 1,350 schools ten years ago. The enrollment of girls taking these courses in grades 5, 6, 7 and 8 of the elementary schools approximates 3,700,000. This means that there are well over 4,100,000 children of school age learning how to cook and keep house according to the most modern principles.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

A pretty wedding took place Saturday evening, February 14, at 8:30, when Miss Mary Opphile, of Circleville Ohio, was united in marriage to Mr. George Bonner of Miles City, Montana, at the home of the bride's cousin, Mrs. Martha Thomas 924 Third street. The lovely ring ceremony was performed by Rev. William Gleiser, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. The home was beautifully decorated in palms and ferns and formed a fitting background for the Valentine wedding. The bride was charmingly attired in a dress of red and black georgette with silver trimmings and carried bride roses and sweet peas. The matron of honor Mr. F. L. Ritchie, was attractively attired in black beaded crepe and carried red carnations and lilies of the valley. Mr. F. L. Ritchie acted as groomsman. The ceremony was followed by a reception and supper. The table was beautifully decorated in red and white and centered with a large white wedding cake. The cutting of the cake and finding the trophies was much enjoyed. Covers were laid for the following. Mr. and Mrs. George Bonner, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Carr, Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Russell. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Darragh, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Makin and daughter, Imogene, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lauter, Rev. and Mrs. William H. Gleiser. Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Stone, Miss Ferrill Morgan and Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Ritchie. Later in the evening the bridal couple were given a miscellaneous shower the gifts being carried in a huge decorated basket by little Miss Muriel Luther. It contained many lovely gifts for their new home. Mrs. Ponner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ora Opphile of Circleville. She has been veen visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Ritchie for the past several months and has made a wide circle of friends in this city. Mr. Bonner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Bonner of Miles City, Montana, and is employed as an illustrator. The couple will leave Monday for Cincinnati to make their future home.—Portsmouth Times.

This is the third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Opphile to have been married within the last two months. Misses Grace and Lois Opphile were married December 22.

Homer F. Lathouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lathouse, of 128 Watt street, and Miss Ordie W. Downs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Downs, of Monroe township, were quietly married at the U. B. parsonage Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. S. W. Hiles performed the ceremony. The groom is employed in the Portsmouth shops of the Norfolk & Western railroad as an electrician. The happy couple left this morning for Indianapolis, Indiana, on a wedding trip and will be the guests of his uncle Rev. Dr. Joel Dunkle, and family. They were accompanied by Mrs. W. H. Lathouse and daughter, Miss Florence Mr. and Mrs. Lathouse will live in Portsmouth.

Saturday evening Miss Elizabeth Helwagen entertained twenty-five friends to a six o'clock dinner. Five tables of bridge and music were the diversions. The out of town guests were Mrs. John Ryan, Mrs. William Burgett, Misses Christine and Frances Leist, of Columbus; Mrs. John Riley, Chillicothe and Mrs. Herbert Snyder of Kingston

Miss Minnie Baines of Washington township and Mr. Ralph Bowman of Amanda, were married Saturday evening at 6 o'clock by Rev. Harry B. Welch at his residence. The young people will make their home in Lancaster.

Mrs. Henry Mader and Mrs. Wallace Crist will give a luncheon and dinner bridge Wednesday, February 18.

EAGLE AERIE TO TAKE PART IN BASEBALL

All Players Wishing a Tryout Will Report at the Lodge Room.

At a meeting held Sunday afternoon at London the preliminary steps were taken in formation of the South Central Ohio Baseball league, and Circleville was given a franchise and will be represented by a team backed by Circleville Aerie of Eagles.

The local aerie were represented at the meeting by five members of the athletic committee, Charles Miller, William Justus, H. R. Hott and C. F. Lowe.

The object of the organization is to offer high class semi-professional baseball under control and it is very probable that the league will be an eight team circuit.

At the meeting Sunday London, Wilmington, Washington C. H., Greenfield and Circleville were granted franchises and it is probable that Chillicothe, Bainbridge and Xenia will be the other three teams.

A player limit of fifteen was agreed upon at the meeting Sunday as was a uniform admission figure of thirty-five cents for men and twenty-five cents for ladies and children.

Each team posts a heavy forfeit as a guarantee of faith and umpires are assigned for all games thru an agency.

A meeting next Sunday at Washington is expected to perfect the organization and adopt rules and at the same time a schedule committee is to be appointed.

Mr. Dean M. Richmond of London, has been selected as president of the league and the secretary will be selected later.

All ball players wishing a try-out with the Eagle team report at the lodge room next Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The scheduled performance will be given under the auspices of the Circleville Rainbows.—Lancaster Eagle.

Keep Cheerful.

Now's the time to cheer up and gear up. Don't let a lowering horizon or human rumblings disturb you. There have been many dark days before and they were followed by sunshine. There has been distress of nations and it has been followed by great marches of progress. The days of the present are the prelude to coming great things. Look the world in the face and teach it to respect you. Marshal your forces in such order that you have them in easy command and you are geared to serve. After all it's the cheerful face and the geared up life that brings things to pass in this world.—Grit.

Elderly Fathers Have Eminent Sons.

Statistics quoted in the Unpopular Review show that other things being equal, the children of older parents "exemplify in a striking way the inheritance of acquired characters. According to these statistics, if the probability of being eminent when born of a father between thirty-five and forty is taken as unity, probability if born at twenty-five is less than one-fifth as great. Ascending the age scale, the probability at from fifty to forty-five is five times that at from thirty-five to forty, and over sixty is ten times that.

SCHOOLS OF WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP

Pupils Will Have Debate and Will Stage Operetta in April.

Members of the civics class attended the Washington C. H.-Circleville debate Friday evening. The civics class is preparing a debate to be given in the near future on the same question.

The Lincoln medal, now displayed at W. J. Harding's jewelry store, will be given to the winner of the Lincoln Essay contest on Monday, February 23. The winner may well be proud of the medal.

Nearly twenty-five pupils came to Washington during the last week from Stoutsville. More are expected this week. It is rumored that Stoutsville schools will open within a week.

Washington township will not enter teams in the Pickaway county tournament.

Miss Barthelmas and Miss Callahan's rooms entertained the other rooms with a splended patriotic and Valentine's day program Friday afternoon.

Examinations are in store for the pupils this week. Friday marks the end of the sixth school month and two-thirds of the school year has passed.

The Washington township schools will close May 15 and graduation will be held that evening.

The high school pupils are working on an operetta to be given sometime in April. Mr. Smith and Mrs. Barton have charge of the music. Work is progressing rapidly, and the operetta will be a success.

Each teacher at Washington school and at the Children's Home school have perfect records of attendance and none have been tardy this year. The school has been in session every school day excepting legal holidays.

This year the pupils sold more Christmas seals than in any previous year. We are using the money for health work. A part was used for refilling the medicine cabinet of the rest room and another part was used to purchase a pair of scales. The scales came Monday and the teachers were busy this week checking up the overweights and underweights.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Huston are remodeling the Riegel home and expect to move soon.

PERSONALS

BETTER

WALL PAPER

Good wall paper is the real thought of true economy. It is within the reach of every home owner. The total added expense of decorating a room with better grades is only the small additional cost of paper. The labor charge remains the same, hence the investment is small compared with the ultimate results. Be mindful of the fact that nothing stands out more conspiciously than wall decorations. Wall paper is the background and support of all the furnishings. It is the final touch in beautifying a home. Select the better grades and you profit both in beauty and economy.

Beautiful Biblical Story.

The story of Ruth, in holy writ, is as refreshing as a thrush's note heard when a gale drives in from the east. She is the epitome of love and trust and fidelity. She lived in 1322 B. C. Clinging to her adopted mother when all else forsook Naomi, the youthful widow, Ruth comes with that broken mother in Bethlehem, for a famine was in their land of Moab. She goes humbly into the fields to glean corn after the reapers. There her modesty attracts the attention of the wealthy Boaz. The lovely love scenes follow. Boaz marries Ruth, and from their union was descended David, the ancestor of Mary, the mother of Christ.

The Tarantula.

The scientific name of that American spider called the tarantula is cteniza Californica, and it is one of the trap-door spiders. It is common in New Mexico, Arizona and California. According to Kingsley this spider digs its hole in a fine soil which when dry is nearly as hard as brick. These spider holes are sometimes nearly an inch in diameter and vary in depth from two to three inches to nearly a foot. The mouth of the hole is enlarged and then closed by a thick cover which fits it tightly. That cover fits into the mouth of the hole very much as a cork does in the neck of a bottle.

Mink an American Fur

Mink is pre-eminently an American fur-bearing animal. It is found in almost every part of the American continent from the eastern part of Canada, where it is a small, silky animal, to Arizona, where it is much larger and its fur is coarser, with yellowish tones near the skin. A mink-fur expert can tell from just what locality the fur comes.

Beehive a Headstone

John Neighbor, a British beekeeper and lecturer, was so engrossed and interested in his calling that when he died provision was made for erecting a headstone for his grave that would perpetuate his memory as a bee expert. Accordingly, an actual beehive has been set up as the headstone for his grave.

Lincoln Memorial, Chicago

The memorial to Lincoln designed by Saint Gaudens and erected in Chicago is one of the most remarkable character studies in stone ever designed. The rugged simplicity of the monument, combined with the faithful portraiture of the statue, seems to breathe the spirit of the Great Man.

The MODERN MONUMENT builders should give you the same results. I can refer you to many memorials erected by me in the past 27 years of my business here. Call at show room. No agents to annoy you.

Ruler of Hearts Relaxes After Valentine Campaign

Customs in Days of King Charles

Famous Chronicler Has Left Records of Valentine Observances.

Old Samuel Pepys, famous chronicler of domestic life in England in the reign of Charles II, makes entry in his diary numerous times of various Valentine customs. Thus on Valentine's day nearly 250 years ago we find him making this record: "This morning came up to my wife's bedside (I being up dressed myself) little Will Mercer to be her Valentine, and brought her name written upon blue paper in gold letters done by himself very pretty; and we both were well pleased with it. But I am also this year my wife's Valentine, and it will cost me five pounds; but I must have laid that out if we had not been Valentines." Prudent man. A bit later Pepys added: "I find that Mrs. Pierce's little girl is my Valentine, she having drawn me; which I was not sorry for, it easing me of something more than I must have given to others. But here I do first observe the fashion of drawing mottoes as well as names, so that Pierce, who drew my wife, did draw also a motto, and this girl drew another for me. What mine was I forget; but my wife's was 'most courteous and most fair' which, as it may be used, on an anagram upon each name, might be very pretty."

What would not the collector of old valentines give for Master Will Mercer's valentine written to Mistress Pepys "upon blue paper in gold letters!" That would be a treasure, indeed, for any collector. Old valentines are less common than one might think. Perhaps this is so because there have been so few collectors of them, and the supply has not outlived the demand. Antique and curio dealers one meets with every day who will say: "Old valentines! Why I never heard of anyone collecting them! We always throw them away, or we used to when they came our way, though lately we haven't had any." Ah, the coupling of "lately" with the dearth of things. That is the collector's stumbling block, but if he be a true collector he will pick himself up and hurry onward to make up for lost time.

Old-Time Valentines

A tender missive of the last century shows a rosy-cheeked girl with a big valentine under her arm and an umbrella that changes its position, says: "I'm keeping my valentine safe for you."

Another maiden moves her eyes seductively as her moving hand writes on a tablet an affectionate sentiment appropriate to the season.

In like manner, a boy's eyes alter their expression while he manipulates the bow of a fiddle.

A dude carrying a large bouquet lifts his hat and moves one leg simultaneously as if walking, the two movements being accomplished by a single pivoted paper attachment at the back. He says, "I want you for my valentine. don't-cher-know."

Costly Valentines

When quaint old Pepys wrote his diary St. Valentine was still "fashionable," and many genuine love affairs grew out of the jesting beginning, while the "favors" frequently were a splendid extravagance that would be frowned upon by the tastes and manners of our day. The duke of York, we are told by the dear old gossip, gave a ring worth $4,000 to his fortunate valentine. The same woman fell the following year to the lot of Lord Mandeville, whose token was a diamond valued at $1,500.

Valentine's Day of Pagan Origin

Came to Us From "Love Lottery" of the Ancient Romans.

How and where did St. Valentine's day originate?

It is said to have had its beginning in the farmyard, where the ganders choose their mates on the fourteenth day of February, a preliminary of their courtship being a remarkable fancy dance.

Nor, indeed, does this theory of its origin reflect upon lovers a painful ridicule, inasmuch as ganders, once mated, make excellent and faithful husbands. So domestically are they inclined that they even sit on the eggs when the female bird is off the nest.

In ancient Rome a sort of love lottery was annually held at the time of the festival called the Supercalia, because it was believed that at that season of the year birds chose their mates. It was a festival celebrated in February, in honor of Pan and Juno, and tablets bearing young women's names were drawn out of a box by the young men. Each youth availing himself of this privilege was expected to be until the next Supercalia the faithful attendant of her whose name he had drawn.

It was a pretty custom, and worth preserving. So Christianity, when it "took over" the pagan festivals and adapted them to its own uses, kept the anniversary of the Supercalia as St. Valentine's day, renaming it in honor of a holy martyr, who had been done to death at Rome in the Third century, A. D.

There was no special reason why St. Valentine should be chosen in preference to any other saint. It does not appear that he took any particular interest in lovers and love-making. But, having first been clubbed to death and then beheaded, he deserved to be immortalized in some fashion, and in this way the object was attained.

The early fathers of the church so modified the Supercalia as to give to the celebration a religious character, and at first the names of saints were drawn as valentines, instead of those of living young women. Even at the present day in some Catholic churches the custom is observed of selecting on St. Valentine's day for the ensuing year a patron saint who is called a valentine. But youths and maidens, finding little amusement in drawing out the names of dead and gone holy men, soon reverted to the practice of drawing each other.

Sing a song of hearts
Pink and red and blue,
Speeding here and there
To friends good and true!

When each one arrives
Some one will exclaim,
"What a pretty thing!
But where, O, where's the name?"

The name, of course, is hid
Underneath the fold
Where the dainty shade
Meets the shining gold!

What's the meaning of it—
Hearts and gilt so fine?
Don't you know, my dear,
It's a VALENTINE?

—Daisy M. Moore in "The Baby's Mother."

His Sartorial Diplomacy

By H. IRVING KING

(Copyright.)

OLDSBURG was a rather considerable town. The hotel, which stood on an eminence overlooking the sea, was a good one, and drummers liked to stop there. Two of these ambassadors of trade sat on the hotel piazza after dinner and communed with nature and with each other. They were Bixby, hardware, and Carpenter, mill supplies.

"Yes," Bixby was saying, "from here I shall take a jump to Boston, and then go down home for a rest of a week or so and get acquainted with the wife and kids."

"So you are married?" ventured Carpenter.

"Yes, married five years now, and got two of the finest kids you ever saw—boys, Harold and Quentin—my wife chose the names."

"I—I—am engeged," said Carpenter, who was much the younger of the two.

"I thought so," was the reply; "I thought so from the nobby way in which you dress. You wouldn't think so to look at me, but before I was married I was the nobblest dresser in Riverport, Me. That's the way I got my wife. You see, it was this way. The two prettiest girls—and the two best girls, if I do say it—in Riverport were the Thurston sisters—Margaret and Nellie. Margie was the elder sister, and was an awfully swell girl, and a bright one, too. Nellie thought that everything Margie said or did was about right; but there was one subject upon which they did not agree. Margie was a crank on dress—men's dress—and if you wanted to get on with her you had to mind your p's and q's in the raiment question. Nellie, on the other hand, didn't seem to know what the correct thing was in male attire—didn't seem to care a hang, either. There was Butler White. White and I were constant callers at the Thurston house—I wasn't traveling then and had time to do my courting and so had But. If you will believe me, But showed up at the Thurston's one night with a dress suit on and lavender socks and a four-in-hand tie.

"Nellie didn't seem to see anything unusual in this get up—even complimented But on his taste in selecting his neckwear. But Margie! I thought she would have a fit. First she stared at him. Then she left the room with her head tossed up and would not speak to But again all that evening. I sat out on the piazza with her, comforting her.

"I tried to defend But all I could by hinting that his great-grandfather had been a bit queer, and that a great aunt on his mother's side had died of senile dementia. But extenuating circumstances were ruled out by the court. But was condemned without benefit of clergy. That was only one of the crimes in the dress line that But committed. He seemed to have a genius for perpetrating sartorial outrages, every one of which was more shocking to Margie than its predecessor. But as for Nellie, she would as like as not calmly remark after one of But's most flagrant exhibitions of total depravity that she did not see anything so very criminal in Mr. White's costume. Margie bought a little book entitled 'What a Gentleman Should Wear,' and gave it to her sister, but the only result was that, after reading it, Nellie asked, 'Why should he?'

"As for me, being very much in love, I kept my raiment right up to date, and was so absolutely correct in my wearing apparel that the only male companions I was fit to associate with were the fashion plates in the circulars of the swell New York and London tailors. I had a little nestegg in the bank, and I blew it in on clothes. I made a study of the thing, and when I really put my mind on a subject I generally get there with both feet. Being, as I have before remarked, very much in love, I determined to please Margie, if it took the last dollar in the bank and the latest waistcoat.

"And I did please Margie. Every time I called she would give me the once-over and pronounce me perfect. White was a good foil to me, I'll acknowledge. And more than that, I knew that Margie was constantly telling her sister what a dandy dresser I was and contrasting me with poor But. Well, things dragged along this way for six months. It was tough on me and on my bankroll, but it was worth it, for, as I have perhaps remarked before, I was very much in love. Poor But didn't weaken, I'll say that for him. He kept calling at the Thurstons' just the same, and seemed to get kinder callous to Margie's unfeeling remarks about his clothes. He made some attempt at reformation, but it wasn't in him.

"Well, at the end of six months But and I both proposed and were accepted."

"And so," said Carpenter, "Miss Margaret Thurston became the present Mrs. Bixby?"

"Not on your life," replied Bixby. "The present Mrs. Bixby was formerly Nellie Thurston. But White married Margie."

"But I thought you said that you were very much in love and, therefore, determined to please Miss Margaret?"

"I did say so," replied Bixby. "I was in love with Nellie, and Nellie was so much under the influence of her sister, that Margie, had I not gained her good graces, might have been a stumbling block in my path. So I removed her—annihilated her as an obstacle with the lightnings of my sartorial elegance."

WOMEN

A Never Failing Topic of Discussion —Banquet of B. and P. W. Club at Boggs Hotel Last Night.

Men are often accused with using the above topic too frequently, but none of them ever handled the subject more ably than the speaker at last night's meeting of the B. and P. W. C., Mrs. Zella McBerty, president of a large welding company of Warren, president of the B. and P. W. Club of that city, and also State Federation president.

She told of many different lines of work to which women are now admitted and while her subject was not entitled Women, we will have to acknowledge her talk was all of them. Their opportunities in the business world and also in the professions. Being an authority on electric welding she was sent as delegate from America last year to England to be present at a convention of electrical engineers, the first time a woman had ever been chosen for such an important and almost we might say, masculine task. Her description of the trip and of the entertainment she was given were most impressive and every member of the club present were very much pleased and felt highly honored that they could have such a gifted person as their guest.

The program arranged by the local committee consisted in a description of the past year's activities of the club. Miss Mary Wilder, the instigator of the organization who was loath to accept the responsibility until she found that it was really going good, told how she had upon a visit to the far away state of Wisconsin, conceived the idea and how she had worked it up with the assistance of some other of the charter members. She closed by stating that it is said to be a bad thing to start something you cannot finish but that she wanted to say far be it from her to want to finish the B. and P. W. Club.

Mrs. Van Riper was the next speaker on the program, she being in charge of the Business Pageant staged last spring in Memorial Hall. This was the first public appearance of the club and a very financial success. Miss Butch told how the club had engineered the Lawn Party which was given for the benefit of the swimming pool and of the result of the order to wear bathing suits upon some of the bathers. One little boy, she said when she visited the pool was wearing a shirt that reached to his feet.

Miss Southward in charge of the rest room and checking booth during Pumpkin Show, gave a report of same and Mrs. Roy Davis spoke very mirthfully of "Marcheta," the latest attempt at financing in the club.

Mrs. Mary Morris Goff, in charge of the music, led the singing, of "How Do You Do" with several added verses.

Mrs. McBerty left for Columbus on the 10:10 car from where she goes to Zanesville to be the speaker at the State Federation convention today.

DEADLY ROUP.

Baltic, Ohio, R. F. D. 2,
Oct. 20, 1924.

F. L. Fickardt.
Dear Sir:—
Send me at once two bottles of your Poultry Medicine, enclosed find one dollar. Elmer Raber.

Baltic, Ohio, Dec. 24, '24.

Mr. Fickardt
Dear Sir:—
A few words in regard to your Poultry Drops.. My flock had a sneezing cold that developed into Deadly Roup. After I began with your medicine I lost only a few birds which were badly infected, the sneezing in the rest of my flock began to disappear.

In a few weeks' time there was a great difference in my flock of 200 English Leghorn pullets, they began to develop and get red combs and wattles. I am sure Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops will help in egg prduction, for a healthy bird is bound to lay if it gets the proper feeds.

Yours respectfully,
Elmer Raber.

Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops is a remedy for Roup, Colds, Sneezing, Limberneck, White Diarrhoea, Indigestion and all bowel disorders. Price 50 cents. Sold by Druggists and General Stores.
